

Category

Commercial Excellence

Channel & Partner Sales Playbook

A repeatable system for recruiting, enabling, and managing resellers, distributors, and alliance partners so indirect revenue scales without diluting margin or brand control.

- Practitioner
 - Intermediate
 - Template Included
 - Workshop Ready
-
- Mithun A. Sridharan
 - 02 September 2025
 - 8 minute(s)

Overview

A practical playbook for building a channel partner program that actually generates revenue: partner segmentation, enablement, deal registration, MDF governance, and the QBR cadence that keeps partners selling.

How many tiers should a channel program actually have?

Three to four is the practical ceiling. More than four tiers creates thresholds so close together that partners argue about placement instead of focusing on what earns them the next tier up, and it multiplies the number of distinct enablement paths your team has to maintain.

What's a reasonable deal-registration window?

Most B2B programs use 60-90 days, renewable once if the partner shows active engagement (a discovery call logged, a proposal sent). Shorter windows push partners to register too early with no real opportunity behind it; much longer windows let partners "land grab" accounts they're not actively working.

How do we handle a partner and a direct rep both claiming the same account?

Whoever has a dated, system-logged first touch — a registered deal or a logged discovery call — gets primary credit; the other party can request a split via a documented escalation path with a 5-business-day SLA. The policy needs to exist and be enforced consistently before the first conflict, not negotiated live during one.

Should MDF be a fixed annual budget or earned incrementally?

Earned incrementally, gated by tier and by a short ROI report after each activity. A fixed annual grant with no reporting requirement is the single most common source of unexplainable channel spend when Finance asks for a channel ROI number.

How long does it take to stand up this whole program from scratch?

The audit, scoring, and policy-writing steps take roughly 3-4 weeks of focused work. The harder part is the first two quarters of consistent PBR cadence and re-scoring — that's what converts a one-time cleanup into a program partners trust.

```
{ "@context": "https://schema.org", "@type": "FAQPage", "mainEntity": [ { "@type": "Question", "name": "How many tiers should a channel program actually have?", "acceptedAnswer": { "@type": "Answer", "text": "Three to four is the practical ceiling. More than four tiers creates thresholds so close together that partners argue about placement instead of focusing on what earns them the next tier up, and it multiplies the number of distinct enablement paths your team has to maintain." } }, { "@type": "Question", "name": "What's a reasonable deal-registration window?", "acceptedAnswer": { "@type": "Answer", "text": "Most B2B programs use 60-90 days, renewable once if the partner shows active engagement (a discovery call logged, a proposal sent). Shorter windows push partners to register too early with no real opportunity behind it; much longer windows let partners \"land grab\" accounts they're not actively working." } }, { "@type": "Question", "name": "How do we handle a partner and a direct rep both claiming the same account?", "acceptedAnswer": { "@type": "Answer", "text": "Whoever has a dated, system-logged first touch — a registered deal or a logged discovery call — gets primary credit; the other party can request a split via a documented escalation path with a 5-business-day SLA. The policy needs to exist and be enforced consistently before the first conflict, not negotiated live during one." } }, { "@type": "Question", "name": "Should MDF be a fixed annual budget or earned incrementally?", "acceptedAnswer": { "@type": "Answer", "text": "Earned incrementally, gated by tier and by a short ROI report after each activity. A fixed annual grant with no reporting requirement is the single most common source of unexplainable channel spend when Finance asks for a channel ROI number." } }, { "@type": "Question", "name": "How long does it take to stand up this whole program from scratch?", "acceptedAnswer": { "@type": "Answer", "text": "The audit, scoring, and policy-writing steps take roughly 3-4 weeks of focused work. The harder part is the first two quarters of consistent PBR cadence and re-scoring — that's what converts a one-time cleanup into a program partners trust." } }] }
```

Subscriber access

Unlock this playbook

This playbook — including every framework, template, and step-by-step section — is available free to Think Insights subscribers. Enter your email to unlock it instantly and get our weekly insights newsletter. No account needed, and access is remembered on this device.

First Name

Last Name

Email

Country

I agree to data processing in accordance with GDPR

Leave this field blank

References

Related playbooks

Commercial Excellence

Renewal, Expansion & Upsell Motion Excellence Playbook

A framework for renewal, expansion, and upsell motion excellence — building dedicated process, ownership, and skill development for post-sale revenue growth, av

- Practitioner
- Intermediate

- Template Included

Read playbook

Commercial Excellence

Outcome-Led Customer Success & Revenue Ownership Playbook

A framework for outcome-led customer success and revenue ownership — establishing genuine customer success accountability for retention and expansion revenue ou

- Executive
- Intermediate
- Template Included

Read playbook

Commercial Excellence

Health Score Design & Lifecycle Interventions Playbook

A framework for health score design and lifecycle interventions — building health scores that account for different customer lifecycle stages and trigger stage-

- Practitioner
- Intermediate
- Template Included

Read playbook

Talk to our commercial excellence team

Author

Mithun A. Sridharan

I'm Mithun A. Sridharan, Founder of this website - Think Insights - on Strategy, Management Consulting, Leadership, Digital Transformation, and Data Literacy. Follow me on social media or connect with me on LinkedIn for updates.