

Category

Consulting

Trusted Advisor Collaboration with Internal Teams & Ecosystem Partners Playbook

Being a trusted advisor to the client without undermining trust in the client's own internal team or other partners

- Practitioner
- Intermediate
- Template Included

- Mithun A. Sridharan
- 19 January 2021
- 4 minute(s)

Overview

A framework for collaborating effectively with a client's internal teams and other ecosystem partners while maintaining trusted advisor status — avoiding both the trap of undermining internal team credibility and the trap of being sidelined by internal or partner dynamics.

Isn't it the client's internal team's job to manage relationships with other partners, not the consultant's? Often the consultant needs to work directly alongside internal teams and other partners as part of delivering value, which makes this a genuine skill to manage deliberately, not something to leave entirely to the client to coordinate.

What's the biggest risk in this multi-party collaboration?

Either inadvertently undermining the client's internal team's credibility (positioning yourself as the smarter outside expert at their expense) or being marginalized by internal or partner dynamics — both damage the trusted advisor relationship, just in different directions.

```
{ "@context": "https://schema.org", "@type": "FAQPage", "mainEntity": [ { "@type": "Question", "name": "Isn't it the client's internal team's job to manage relationships", "acceptedAnswer": { "@type": "Answer", "text": "with other partners, not the consultant's?\nOften the consultant needs to work directly alongside internal teams\nand other partners as part of delivering value, which makes this a\ngenuine skill to manage deliberately, not something to leave entirely\nto the client to coordinate." } }, { "@type": "Question", "name": "What's the biggest risk in this multi-party collaboration?"
```

```
"acceptedAnswer": { "@type": "Answer", "text": "Either inadvertently undermining the client's internal team's\ncredibility (positioning yourself as the smarter outside expert at\ntheir expense) or being marginalized by internal or partner dynamics —\nboth damage the trusted advisor relationship, just in different\ndirections." } } }
```

Subscriber access

Unlock this playbook

This playbook — including every framework, template, and step-by-step section — is available free to Think Insights subscribers. Enter your email to unlock it instantly and get our weekly insights newsletter. No account needed, and access is remembered on this device.

First Name

Last Name

Email

Country

I agree to data processing in accordance with GDPR

Leave this field blank

References

Related playbooks

Consulting

End-to-End Consulting Engagement (From Pitch to Delivery)

A five-phase spine for running consulting engagements end to end — pitch, contract, mobilize, deliver, and close — with the templates and governance rhythm to k

- Practitioner
- Intermediate

Read playbook

Consulting

Trusted Advisor in Long-Term Strategic Accounts Playbook

A framework for sustaining genuine trusted advisor value across a multi-year strategic account relationship — actively refreshing relevance, avoiding complacenc

- Practitioner
- Advanced
- Template Included

Read playbook

Consulting

Consulting Talent Pyramid & Career Progression Playbook

A framework for designing consulting firm career progression — goals, feedback cadence, and promotion readiness criteria — specific and consistent enough that c

- Executive
- Intermediate
- Template Included

Read playbook

Talk to us about multi-party collaboration

Tags

- Trusted Advisor
- Internal Collaboration
- Partner Ecosystem

Author

Mithun A. Sridharan

I'm Mithun A. Sridharan, Founder of this website - Think Insights - on Strategy, Management Consulting, Leadership, Digital Transformation, and Data Literacy. Follow me on social media or connect with me on LinkedIn for updates.